Be sure to stop by upon your next visit to Narita International Airport or Kansai International Airport!

Specialty shop in support of locally crafted items from developing countries

What is the One Village, One Product Market?

The One Village, One Product Market is a specialty shop in support of locally crafted items from developing countries (in Africa and Asia, amongst others), through sale of about 300 handicrafts and food products. Though many of these products may be from countries you tend not to hear too much about on a daily basis, they are all without a doubt incredibly captivating. Come visit us and fall in love with some of these items.

Plain Child Djembe
(Republic of Ghana)

Small djembe with a colorful body, hand-engraved with an African house and a geometric pattern. Drum head is made of goatskin.

Colon Doll
(Republic of Cote d'Ivoire)

Under the influence of Western culture, the people of Cote d'Ivoire began to dress differently during the French colonial period. These dolls are based on the native people's jobs and clothing around that time.

Natural Masala Chai
(Republic of Kenya)

Black tea cultivation began in Kenya under English colonial rule. This chai is made from an exquisite blend of six spices, including ginger, cinnamon, and cardamom.

Tingatinga Art
(United Republic of Tanzania)

Tingatinga is a painting style that has its roots in 1960s Tanzania. Animals and plants are drawn in enamel paint with imagination and bold, vibrant colors.

At-bassy Honey
(Kyrgyz Republic)

Honey made by incredibly resilient honey bees capable of surviving in the extreme conditions at 2,000m elevation, from alpine herbs. Awarded 1st prize in the world's greatest international honey tournament.

Christmas Island Solar Salt
(Republic of Kiribati)

Salt crystallized naturally from seawater under the intense sunlight at the equator. Rich in minerals, the salt is characterized by a smooth, rounded taste.

Gecko Doll
(Kingdom of Cambodia)

The gecko, known traditionally as the guardian of the home, turned into a lucky charm. Write a wish on a piece of paper and place it in its backpack, or fill the backpack with another good luck item of your choosing.

Lapis Lazuli Necklace
(Islamic Republic of Afghanistan)

Lapis lazuli is known as the gemstone of happiness, with those from Afghanistan particularly well-known due to their quality.

Café Timor
(The Democratic Republic of Timor-Leste)

Café Timor is a producer's cooperative created when coffee farmers from 18 villages came together to process their own beans, with these beans imported as fair trade products. The coffee is organic and smooth, with an exquisite balance of bitterness and acidity.
