Tilleke & Gibbins is a leading law firm in Southeast Asia with over a century of experience practicing in the region. Our office in Yangon, Myanmar, was opened in September 2013 and provides a gateway into the country's emerging commercial markets.

Our team focused on Myanmar includes attorneys from our Bangkok office as well as locally qualified Myanmar attorneys. Our Myanmar practice is supported by our team of more than 150 lawyers and consultants spread across five other countries, who have extensive experience in both common and civil law jurisdictions.

Even prior to the opening of our Yangon office, Tilleke & Gibbins was handling legal matters covering a broad spectrum of practice areas in Myanmar. We currently act for a wide range of international companies on over 2,400 active cases in Myanmar. Our commitment to providing quality legal services is attributable to our understanding and interest in the legal landscape in Myanmar.

Several leading legal publications, such as Managing IP and Asialaw Profile, have recommended our firm for intellectual property work in Myanmar.

Tilleke & Gibbins' intellectual property practice in Myanmar is distinctive from other firms due to the full range of services we offer, both non-contentious and contentious.

In non-contentious work, we regularly handle cross-border commercialization and transactional work, including franchising and licensing, for our multinational clients. In IP protection and enforcement, our innovative approach to assisting clients with their IP needs, and our strong collaboration with local administrative agencies have enabled us to achieve results that extend beyond just traditional records and case-and-desist letters, as the matter descriptions we have provided in this submission will show. We are also strong in litigation, with an in-house team of litigators who are ready to represent clients in court if needed.

Moreover, the intellectual property work undertaken by our Myanmar office is part of our firm's larger regional intellectual property practice, which comprises over 80 lawyers, 70 IP professionals, and 90 support staff, who all work together to provide seamless cross-border services, knowledge transfer, client referrals, and legal and technical expertise.

The full range of our intellectual property capabilities, the diverse types of matters we have handled for international companies, our in-depth understanding of local laws and business culture, and our truly regional reach makes our Myanmar office a powerhouse in the nation's intellectual property market.
